COLORADO TRYING TO BAR BOXING CONTESTS.

Bill Introduced in State Legislature for That Purpose.

Denver, Jan. 18.—A bill was introduced in the legislature today which is designed to prevent boxing contests like the Welsh-White contest last Labor day. The bill would terminate the practice of licensing clubs to stage boxing contests. Colorado already has a statute against prize fights.

Frank J. Marshall, the chess champion, took on 123 contenders last season. If Willard wants to prove his real claim to the heavyweight title he better follow the example set by Marshall.

BALL CLUBS WILL START SOUTH SOON

Major League Owners Have Completed Spring Training Camp Arrangements in Spite of Controversy—Texas Will Have Five Camps.

In spite of the controversy with the Players' Fraternity, which openly declares that the players will strike if their demands are not conceded to, the major league baseball owners have completed spring training arrangements. The spring training plans have been perfected and within another six weeks the fans will be reading daily accounts of the great diamond doings of their favorites.

Texas is to entertain the largest number of the big leaguers this spring. Five teams—the Giants, White Sox, Tigers, Browns and Cardinals, have placed training spots in the Lone Star state.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Settlement of the threatened baseball players' strike rests with the club owners and presidents of the two major leagues. President Johnson of the American League announced today on his return from New York. The National Baseball Commission will take no part in the strike.

"This strike propaganda is clear to the baseball world," Johnson said. "It is simply a move on the part of a few players and President Fultz of the National Association. The players are not to be taken in by the big salaries that were paid during the Federal League fight."

President Johnson said that the majority of the American League players will report even if a strike is called. He also said he had received a letter from Manager Griffith of the Washington club, advising the members of the American League that no trouble was expected.

Johnson said the Washington club was supposed to be the strongest of the fraternity in the American League. Ray Schalk, catcher of the Chicago Americans, signed a 1917 contract to-night in defiance of the orders issued by Fultz. He said he had received no word from Fultz and had no reason to hold out.

Claims Fultz sent out false bulletin. Chairman August Hermann calls attention that players should not be misled.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 18.—In a statement issued from the offices of the National Baseball Commission here, Chairman August Hermann, of the commission, caused the members of the Baseball Players' Fraternity not to be misled by false statements.

"My attention has just been called to Bulletin No. 2, sent out by David L. Fultz, president of the Baseball Fraternity, to the members thereof. In the first paragraph, in referring to the recent meeting of the National Association, he states that the request have been tabled without consideration. This statement on his part is false."

The statement follows: "Members of the fraternity should not be misled by false statements." "We are perfecting our organization in many respects. We have received today from 45 players, three of them among the highest salaried players in the game, pledging themselves to sign no contract until the demands are granted."

PERCY HAUGHTON WILL NOT BE DICTATED TO. Absolutely Refuses to Grant Maranville a Raise in Salary.

Boston, Jan. 18.—President Haughton of the Boston Nationals today expressed his opinion in the coming year offered by Maranville, the Braves crack shortstop. Returning to the club after a brief absence, he refused to sign a contract for next year on the terms for the past two seasons, understood to be $4,500 a year.

"Maranville will sign at the salary I offered him or he will get out of baseball. That's final," Haughton announced. Maranville, who was here on a visit, would not comment on Haughton's statement, but it does appear that he sought an advance in salary and that his refusal to sign had nothing to do with the Players' Fraternity.

JOHNNY DRUMME TOOK THE COUNT. Kibane Put Jersey City Fighter Asleep in Tenth Round.

Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 18.—Johnny Kibane knocked out Johnny Drumme of Jersey City in the tenth round here to-night, clearly winning the fight. Kibane floored Drumme in the first round.

In the semi-finals, Hugh Ross of Bridgeport won the title of champion of the state by knocking out Gene Delmont. Johnny Kibane's victory was a surprise, as he is only a year and a half older than his opponent. Kibane, who is a native of Jersey City, has a record of 10 wins and 1 loss.

The victories in the Store and Factory League were decisive. The Mechanics won from the Hopkins & Allen by wide majority and the Tail Clerks easily defeated the J. B. Martin.

KID MCCOY PRAISES GEORGES CARPENTIER. Is of Opinion that French Fighter Would Defeat Jesse Willard—Says He is Greatest Big Man in Ring Today.

Kid McCoy believes that if Georges Carpentier ever meets Jesse Willard, the world's champion will get a drubbing. McCoy, perhaps the foulest boxer that ever walked to the center is a great admirer of the dashing Frenchman.

McCoy sat with Tex Rickard off in a corner of the Waldorf and told the tall Texan that the championship of the world might change hands if Willard and the idol of Paris meet.

"I'll tell you why I think Carpentier will whip Willard," said McCoy. "Carpentier is the speediest big man in the world and speed is the thing that will beat the fellow with bulk and weight. Moran didn't have it and Carpentier has it. I ever knew or boxed with. He is amazingly fast, a perfect marvel of action, and he has two wonderful hands."

"I saw him flatten Joe Jeannette twice in their fight in Paris, with short punches and punches. He was as fast as a cat and he was as strong as a bull. I saw him come here in a going with him and if you don't see him Willard will be the one to get it. Don't let a wild sweet potato, that's all. I know what the boy is capable of."

"He's not a middleweight. Don't let anyone tell you that. He weighed 170 or 180 pounds the night he fought Genoa Smith in London. He knocked the gunner sprawling in one of the rounds. You may be in doubt as to the final result of the fight. The Frenchman was winning. mind you. He got blingy bang, when he suddenly let fly at the gunner. He missed and the force of the murmur drove him from the ring. He was out of his pins. He went down on his hands and knees, spread out like a crawfish, and the bewildered Smith, as if to hit him with a jet and a fly brought him right down on Carpentier's neck. The referee promptly disqualified the gunner. I saw him tell you. It was the luckiest thing that ever happened to Smith."

I know he'll drop Willard at least.

do away with the evil of subscription for teams. "To unpaid coaches, also, are open the same opportunities of snarl and of disguised professionalism that are open to our highly organized and intense athletic sport as a great discipline for the body and mind. Yet these considerations, though they complicate the problem, provide no adequate reason for refusing it and the paragraphs devoted to it in the Yale Carpenter deserve the active and grateful consideration of every committee on athletics and of every college man."

PLAYERS' FRATERNITY WILL STAND BY THEIR GUNS.

Fultz Says Some of the Highest Salaried Players in the Country Have Been Pledged Not to Sign Contracts.

Boston, Jan. 18.—The plans of the Baseball Players' Fraternity for a strike in support of demands made upon major league clubs were endorsed at a meeting of the club owners in the major and minor leagues here tonight, according to a statement by David L. Fultz, president of the fraternity, who presided.

"The boys talked over the situation and decided to stand by their guns," he said. "We are perfecting our organization in many respects. We have received today from 45 players, three of them among the highest salaried players in the game, pledging themselves to sign no contract until the demands are granted."

YALE REPORT DESERVES CREDIT, SAYS BRIGGS

Harvard Dean in His Annual Report Discussed Expenditures for Athletics.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 18.—The theory that college sports are boys' games and not tremendous disciplinary experiences wherein victory is vital was discussed by Dean Le Baron R. Briggs, who presided at the annual meeting of the Harvard Athletic Association, in his annual report made public tonight. He referred to a recent Yale University report on the subject of expenditures for athletics.

"This theory of adopted the committee on regulation of athletic sports of Harvard University. In his annual report made public tonight. He referred to a recent Yale University report on the subject of expenditures for athletics. He said that it does away with the theory which he said comes down to nearly everything."

"does away with the present coaching system and with much of the present extravagance in building and equipment, as well as coaches, cannot be overlooked, nor should it be forgotten that the cost of athletics is borne by athletics and not by the university treasury. Incidentally, the receipts from athletics

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS BROAD

Trading Was Moderate, With Trend of Prices Toward Higher Levels.

New York, Jan. 18.—Assurances of the success of the new British loan and the reduction in the British loan rate from 6 to 5 1/2 per cent, the first change in six months, were among the sentimental factors which influenced today's movement of prices towards higher levels.

Trading was only moderate but broader and with a more confident undertone than any previous session of the week. There was a steady demand for Standard shares, notably rails, Canadian Pacific making up much of its recent decline with gains of one to two points in other Pacifics, Reading, St. Paul, Erie and Long Island.

High grade industrials were responsive to trade advice, which offered more encouragement. An early break of 20 points in Bethlehem Steel common, with ten for the preferred, was soon rectified, though both issues closed at net declines. United States Steel and kindred shares were 2 to 3 points higher at their best, with 7 for Gulf States Steel. The steel sector again impelled to cover in the motor issues on further gains in Maxwell, General Motors and Studebaker, while subsidiary stocks, including the rubber group, were firm to strong on reports of a gigantic consolidation.

Shipments recovered from yesterday's reversals. Marine preferred making a 1/2 point gain, with a 1-1/2 for the common and 3-1/8 for Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies. Current goods advanced on developments in marines, presumably in connection with deferred dividends.

Stocks of carefully selected zinc issues had its basis in circumstantial statements of a renewal of negotiations for large foreign supplies. The same causes were made to serve the leather and sugar shares, but oils were little more than firm, despite additional advances in crude and refined products.

Gas shares and Western Union featured the strong utilities, with such isolated specialties as Pittsburgh Coal, National Enamelling and Cast Iron Pipe. Total sales amounted to $20,000.

Rubbers and fires fell under yesterday's low records, with further weakness in rates on Berlin and Vienna. Sterling and francs were firm.

Slight concessions were registered by almost all interest bonds. Domestic railway issues were steady. Total sales (par value) aggregated $5,450,000.

U. S. bonds were unchanged on call.

once in the fight. You know all the heavy punches haven't been used yet. He'll find a way to bring Willard down. He can't think as fast as Carpentier, but he's sure of that. I've watched both men fight. Willard was never in the same class with this French boy. They're mad about him in Paris. It's a wonder that his adulation has not turned his head. But it hasn't. He's a clean liver, brave and the fastest big man that ever put up his hands. I repeat that his speed will offset anything any big man ever had. Carpenter certainly weighs more than 190 pounds now. He is growing all the time and it is foolish to think that he is not in condition. He's been out in the open for two years living on army rations, and if you don't think that they will harden him, why you'd better try a little while on the border, as I did.

14 RECRUITS TO OBE TRIED OUT BY MCGRAW

Famous Leader to Take Half of Rookie Squad South.

Though the Giants, as made up at the close of the 1916 pennant race, were rated as the strongest team in the country, the manager in the coming year, Manager John J. McGraw shows no disposition to stand pat on his all-star collection which set up a new record in victories last September.

Looking to the future, as the wise manager always does, McGraw has arranged to try out the usual number of young players at Marlin in March. No less than 14 young athletes, candidates for all positions on the team, will have the opportunity of showing their worth in the Giants' training camp within a few weeks.

Pitching is the department which has given the Giants his chief concern during the past two seasons, and it is not surprising that almost half of his new young players are boxmen. Six of the recruits are pitchers and only one of the number, Pie Waz, has had previous experience with the new York team. McGraw will look over two catchers, one a newcomer and one who was tried out at Marlin a year ago and farmed out for more experience. Four youngsters are infield candidates one for each position and two of the players are outfielders.

The pitchers are Middleton, purchased last summer from the Louisville club, champions of the American Association; Causey, a big left-handed slugger, who performed last season for the Waco club of the Texas league; Morrisette, tried out last spring by Connie Mack and later released to the Baltimore club of the International league; Sterling Stryker, a semi-professional pitcher, who was with the New York team last season with the independent club at Atlantic Highlands, N. J.; Jaynes, a right-handed pitcher, who was with the team last season with the Rochester club of the International league. He was released to Rochester on option after the college season closed, and recalled at the close of the season. One of five young catchers to try for a place on the team is Sandberg, who was tried out at Marlin last spring and later released to Albany, where he played most of the season. The other catcher is Kreuger, from the Omaha club of the Western league who had a tryout with the Yankees three years ago. The infielders are Rodriguez, the Cuban first baseman, who was released under option last spring to the New London club of the Eastern league; Young, a second baseman and utility infielder from Sherman of the Western association; Kilguff, a shortstop from Omaha of the Western league, and Shepman, a third baseman, who had a tryout last year and was released with Rodriguez to Rochester late last season. The outfielders are Witterstater, from the Newark club, and Josefson from Dallas.

Ad Wolgast, one of the grittiest lightweight champions who ever graced that division of pugilists, just can't get over the belief that he still has the title ability in this respect. He is no different from many another one-time wearer of a fight crown. But there's the feature of the thing from Wolgast's standpoint. He has money—boodles of it. When he was a champion there never was a more popular boxer, and he was drawing big houses.

As far as he is concerned a few thousands were stored away in the banks, waiting until Wolgast should find the proper investment. Now he is a poor man, turned up and the dollars have multiplied themselves. It seems strange that a man so well heeled as Wolgast should wander around the state picking quarrels here and there with tough, strong young fellows. It has been more than four years now since Wolgast lost the title to Willie Ritchie on a foul, and since that time he has been a poor man. Wolgast has been drifting along, seeking match after match with champions. He laid Freddie Welsh cold in Denver, but Referee Billy Roche declared the blow was foul. Wolgast belongs to the wonderful old school of fighters, the kind who waste in head down, and arms going like flails. They go in the ring to win. They are fighters. When Wolgast and Nelson held their bout for the world's lightweight championship each man was near a knockout when the bout was stopped and the decision awarded to Wolgast. Nelson came very near being just as much of a champion at that time as did Wolgast.

CHIPS FROM THE CLAYS.

Thirty rifle clubs have been formed in New Jersey during the past few months. Harrison Cooley, an Indian, recently won the trapshooting championship of the state. He is a native of the Indian to ever win a trapshooting title. The Richmond Gun club of Richmond, O., and the Betterson Gun club of Betterson, Md., were awarded trophies by the Interstate association in November. The international trapshooting tournament at St. Thomas, Ont., in December was the biggest ever held in Canada. Bob Emile, the baseball umpire, is president of the St. Thomas association.

Joe Bush, a member of the present day Athletics, and Chief Bender, a pitcher of the once champion Athletics, engaged in a 100 clay target match at the site of the 1916 trapshooting tournament. Bush broke 24 targets to 32 for Bender.

The Minneapolis Athletic club, the largest and strongest social organization of business men in that city, has gone in for rifle shooting and trapshooting. Thirty girls of the State college of Washington are given instruction weekly in the use of firearms.

Employees of the Twin City Telephone company in Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn., have formed a rifle club. Trapshooting, trade representatives of Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, New England, and the West. The organization is known as the West. Preparation for the Willard-Fulton bout. Jack Curley Will try to Promote the Fight in New York.

Negotiations for the perpetration of the annual heavyweight championship battle are under way. The principals, of course, are to be Jess Willard and Frederic Fitzsimmons, the latter a precocious plasterer, of Rochester, Minn.

Jack Curley, the gentleman who promoted some wrestling matches of malodorous memory and who arranged for the Willard-Johnson fight, plans to be the promoter. Jack, who owns a 10 per cent. interest in Willard, would like to stage the championship bout himself, thereby becoming a double profit-sharer in the event.

The affair has progressed as far as the site hunting part. Madison
